West Palm Beach's Nora District adds four new exciting tenants

See video of Nora District shopping, dining and entertainment making way in West Palm Beach

The Nora District construction is progressing for the new dining, shopping and entertainment section north of downtown West Palm Beach.

There's a charming new neighborhood rising out of the ground in a former warehouse district near downtown West Palm Beach.

Once-gritty industrial buildings, some with garage-sized bay doors, have been brought to life for use as bright, open spaces for new restaurants, shops and more along North Railroad Avenue west of Dixie Highway.

The buildings are part of the newly created Nora dining, shopping and entertainment district, the largest planned redevelopment in West Palm Beach since CityPlace.

Nora was originally set to open this spring, but now a few retailers will open this summer, with the project's overall grand opening set for the fall.

Four new businesses opening in West Palm Beach's Nora District

Nora is adding four new tenants to its growing roster: LUCE, Pompanos, SWEAT440, and Warby Parker. The new arrivals will bring a mix of modern jewelry, upscale fashion, boutique fitness and innovative eyewear to the development.

Led by NDT Development, Place Projects, and Wheelock Street Capital, Nora aims to transform the area into a walkable, mixed-use district that reflects the city's future.

Pompanos Boutique, founded by fashion expert Paul DiGiovanni, will offer custom-designed women's fashion, blending Palm Beach elegance with a modern edge.

Luce, the first storefront from the next generation of the Kravit Jewelers family, will showcase artisan-designed jewelry.

Fitness brand SWEAT440 will bring high-intensity 40-minute classes that start every 10 minutes, catering to all fitness levels.

Warby Parker will round out the mix with its modern take on eyewear, offering eye exams and a range of stylish, affordable glasses and sunglasses.
