Modern fine jewelry brand opens its first storefront in West Palm Beach's growing lifestyle destination

Boca Raton, FL – October 1, 2026 – The Nora District continues to expand its curated retail collection with the opening of LUCE, a modern fine jewelry concept rooted in nearly a century of craftsmanship and family tradition. Located at 985 N. Railroad Avenue, the exquisite 800 square foot jewel box boutique reimagines the traditional jewelry experience through an inviting, thoughtfully designed space that blends heirloom-quality craftsmanship within a relaxed, contemporary atmosphere. The concept offers timeless fine jewelry designed to be worn every day and passed down for generations, alongside bespoke creations, personalized service, and an elevated yet approachable shopping experience. The addition further enhances Nora's growing collection of best-in-class retail, dining and lifestyle concepts, reinforcing the district's vision as one of South Florida's most dynamic mixed-use destinations.

Founded by cousins Valan Kaye and Ty Yanowitch, LUCE represents the next generation of the family behind Kravit Jewelers, the Long Island institution established in 1927. The duo set out to build something entirely their own from the ground up: a modern jewelry store designed for today's consumer.
